Powerfully Well-Suited ★★★★★

She may have been the brunt of jokes for her fashion sense (or what some pundits declared, the lack of), but I'd like to go out on a limb and profess no one in recent history has worked a pantsuit with the potential presidential flair of Hillary Rodham Clinton.

Gutsy in her color choices, creatively crafty in her cuts selected, it's obvious Hillary's adopted uniform undergirds her with confidence and positively perceived professionalism.

Since we've been expounding on style statements of government gals, removed from the race or no, Mrs. Clinton's contribution to the landscape of looks this year merit a mention. As it turns out, many of Hill's most perfect pantsuits have been custom-made by the superlative Susanna of Beverly Hills. Inexpensive they're not, but as the RNC demonstrated recently, decking out a candidate on the trail takes investment!

An on-camera cutaway of Ms. Clinton at the recent Alfred E. Smith dinner revealed a glitteringly gorgeous evening jacket, with which I have to imagine a pairing of elegant pants resided under the table.

While her look may not be one suited for all, my hat is off to Hillary -- not only for breaking that glass ceiling, but for breaking with forced fashion expectations that might not mesh with her personal style. Whether you espouse her political views or not, you've got to respect her individuality.

Peace amidst politics--
